GEOLOGY.

PAPER NO. IV.

THE GENERAL STRUCTURE OF THE DE TRICT.

As intimated on a preceeding page As intimated on a preceeding page, the principal topographical features of the district south of Rough creek uplift are a principal ridge, having a northare a principal ridge, having a northwestwardly trend, which forms the water shed for the waters of Lewis creek on the south and the waters of Muddy creek in part, and of Rough creek in part, on the north, and a subordinate cipal one. This is the coal ridge These, with the Jerusalem ridge, are the principal features but they are not the only permanent ones. The Ben's Lick Hills between Brush creek and Ben's Lick creek, (both of which streams flow into Rough creek), a few conical hills on the borders of Muddy creek and down, which flows the stream Tell her then to kiss my children. of Flat Lick Mill run, etc., but which is very much broken and is really connected with the ridge northwardly from Rosine, and at Point Pleasant and near Centertown, are also prominent, especially in their geological value. The coal ridge, which for the larger part of its course, lies South of the railroad, and extends in an irregular line from the head-waters of Indian Camp creek to the Green river, with its various spars, seems to contain not only larger number of coals, but a larger area of thick beds than any of the other ridges. The Bens Lick hills contain some of the thick beds; the Jerusalem ridge contains a bed 3 feet 10 inches, to 6 feet 6 inches, including a clay particle of 6 in thick, and the ridge near Centertown and the ridge near Centertown and the ridge near centering the thickest heal.

And in the leart has been kept tender, By the thoughts their mem'ry stirred; Tell them I ne'er reached the haven, Where I sought the precious dust, But I've gained a port called heaven, Where the gold doth never rust. Point Pleasant contains the thickest bed of coal found in the district, but compared with that of the beds of the coal ridge the area is small. The general shape of the beds from Rough creek uplift is east of Hartford, between 20° and 25° East of South-west of Hartford; the direction as indicated on a preceding page is very visible the general course, South-westwardly. The region West of Hartford has not been studied sufficiently in detail for the precise limits of the various dips of the beds to be determined. The dip is not very variable but complicated by a small fault, which extends North-westwardly from Rockport on Green River. It may be said that in that region, that there is a 42 by general retreat to the Northward of the limit of the Southward slope of the beds as the Green river is approached that is, the line limiting the Southward slope swings round west of Hartford, and ghastly defense of the administration.

It seems that were these lines pro jected on a map they would be found all kinds of business since Harrison's to represent an imperfectly formed inauguration. Sitting on the Safety Valve.

Many are they who have laughed as the story of the green steamboat fireman who sat on the safety valve to prevent it "leaking." Yet thousands are ed him to such masterly ideas, and repeating his folly every day. They are troubled with blotches, pimples, emptions, salt-rheum, boils, carbuncles, ul cers and old sores, and are contenting themselves with suppressing the symptoms without removing the cause. They sit on these safety valves by which Nature is driving out blood impurities, instead of using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures by removing the cause, which is in the blood. It

Lay up nearer, brother, nearer, For my limbs are growing cold, And thy presence seemeth dearer, When thine arms around me fold. I am dying, brother, dying— Soon you'll miss me in your berth, And my form will soon be lying Neath the ocean's briny surf.

Hearken to me, brother, hearken!
I have something I would say.
Ere this vail my vision darkens.
And I go from hence away.

Tell my father when you greet him. That in death I prayed for him—

That in death my eyes did glisten. When the tears her memory stirred. Like the kiss I last impressed;
Hold them fast, as last I held them,
Folded closely to my breast.
Give them early to their Maker— Putting all their trust in God And He never will forsake her,

He has said so in His word.

Oh, my children—Heaven bless then They were all my life to me; Would I could once more caress then Ere I sink beneath the sea. Twas for them I crossed the ocean What my hopes were I'll not tell But they've gained an orphan's portic Yet He doeth all things well.
